

THOUSANDS OF BIRDS AT THIS WEEK'S EXHIBIT

Prize Chickens From Southland Will Be Displayed by Virginia Poultry Show Association.

THREE FLOORS NECESSARY

Building at 1007 East Main Street Will Be Scene of Best Show in History of Association—Division of Classes and Cops Contested For.

Exhibitors at the tenth annual show of the Virginia Poultry Association, which begins Tuesday morning and continues until Friday night at 1007 East Main Street, will be especially favored, in that they will be permitted to place cards, four inches wide and fifteen inches long on the coop showing the name and address of the exhibitor. Printed matter will also be allowed to be placed on the coops at the beginning of the show, thus giving each exhibitor equal showing.

The space of the three floors at 1007 East Main Street will be utilized in making a display of the birds, of which there will be more than 1,000. The exhibits will embrace many of the prize-winning birds at fairs in the South and also from Ohio and West Virginia, and the exhibition will be one of the most complete ever given by the State association.

The birds have been divided into fourteen classes, as follows:

1. American—Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Javas, Dominiques, Rhode Island Reds and Buckeyes.
2. Asiatic—Grahams, Cochins and Langshans.
3. Mediterranean—Lehighs, Minorcas, Andalusians, Anconas and Spanish Gamefowls.
4. English—Dorkings, Red Caps, Orpingtons and Cornish.
5. Polish—including all breeds of Bantams.
6. Dutch—Hamburghs, Lakenwelders and Campines.
7. French—Houdans, Crevecoeurs, LaFleches and Flavelles.
8. Games—all breeds.
9. Oriental—Sumatras and Malaya.
10. A. A. includes Bantams and Oriental Bantams.
11. Ornamental Bantams—Sebrights, Rose Combs, Bearded Bantams, Cochins, Japanese, Polish, White Leghorns and Bantams.
12. Miscellaneous—Frizzles, Rumpless, Pile Long-Tailed Phoenix, Capons, Silks and Sultan.
13. Guinea, pheasants, peafowls and turkeys.
14. Ducks—Pekin, Call, East India, Muscovy, Indian Runner, Blue Swallows, Buff Orpington and Pencilled Runners.
15. Ducks—including Toulouse, Embury, African and Chinese.

The Virginia Poultry Association, Inc., a State organization devoted to the interest of thoroughbred poultry, has the following officers: John C. Hagan, president; C. F. Sauer, Jr., J. Dunston and T. Webb, Jr., vice-presidents; R. O. Berger, treasurer; and C. C. King, secretary. The executive committee is composed of John C. Hagan, Richmond, chairman; C. C. King, Richmond; R. H. Haw, Centerville; L. E. Myers, and W. Lassiter, Richmond; J. T. Rutherford, Rock Castle; and Louis Siebold, Ashland.

F. S. Eullington, of Richmond, is president of the Virginia Poultry Association; L. H. Reade, first vice-president; G. T. Webb, second vice-president; S. S. Hurch, secretary. The executive committee is composed of John C. Hagan, Richmond; C. C. King, Richmond; R. H. Haw, Centerville; L. E. Myers, and W. Lassiter, Richmond; J. T. Rutherford, Rock Castle; and Louis Siebold, Ashland.

The following silver cups will be contested for: The John C. Hagan cup, Smith & Webster; the George W. Lassiter cup, McCurdy & Johnson; the Virginia State Fair Association cup, Schenck Brothers; the John Hirschberg cup, Spratt's; the Warren cup, Schaefer; C. F. Sauer cup, National Slingshot; the Huntington cup, American White Orpington Club; and a silver set offered by the Virginia Poultry Association.

Other valuable premiums have been put up by business firms and individuals.

GEORGIA HOLDS AUBURN TO A SCORELESS TIE

ATLANTA, Ga., November 21.—The Plainsmen of Auburn today lost a football game without the victory for the first time in two years. In the first half the Auburn team, coached by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, was held to a scoreless tie. In the second half the Georgia team, coached by the University of Georgia, won the game by a score of 0-0.

The climax of the struggle came near the end. Playing desperately, Auburn obtained the ball on its own twenty-five-yard line. Three minutes were left for scoring efforts. The Auburn team tried to score, but failed. Three minutes were left for scoring efforts. The Auburn team tried to score, but failed. Three minutes were left for scoring efforts. The Auburn team tried to score, but failed.

FOOTBALL RESULTS

- At Richmond: Richmond College, 32; William and Mary, 0.
- At Petersburg: Randolph-Macon, 20; Hampden-Sydney, 0.
- At Lafayette, Ind.: Purdue, 28; Indiana, 18.
- At Lawrence, Kan.: Missouri, 10; Kansas, 7.
- At Iowa City, Ia.: Nebraska, 18; Iowa, 0.
- At Cincinnati: University of Cincinnati, 15; Ohio University, 0.
- At New York: New York University, 14; Wesleyan, 20.
- At New York: Johns Hopkins, 0; Western Maryland, 6.
- At Hoboken, N. J.: Rutgers, 23; Stevens, 0.
- At Madison, Wis.: Illinois, 24; Wisconsin, 0.
- At Washington: Washington and Jefferson, 14; Georgetown, 0.
- At West Point: Army, 12; Springfield, 0.
- At Annapolis: Navy, 23; Ursinus, 2.
- At Boston: Dartmouth, 40; Syracuse, 0.
- At New Haven: Harvard, 28; Yale, 0.
- At Atlanta: Auburn, 0; Georgia, 0.
- At Louisville: Rose Poly, 0; University of Louisville, 25.
- At Pittsburgh: Allegheny College, 26; Carnegie Tech, 7.
- At Philadelphia: Penna Freshmen, 14; Cornell Freshmen, 0.
- At Chicago: Minnesota Poly, 13; University of Chicago, 7.

TWO STARS IN YESTERDAY'S GAME

J. Corville-Yale Photos-UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD-N.Y. Pennock-Harvard

EBBETS AND HERRMANN TO BATTLE FOR $15,000

Price Paid for Release of Tinker the Stake—National Commission to Act as Referee.

TENNER TO TAKE FULL CHARGE

National League President Will Have Offices in Quakertown and New York—Connie Mack in "Dutch" With Philadelphia Fans.

A terrific battle for a $15,000 stake will be fought on or about December 9 in the fashionable Waldorf-Astoria Hotel between Charles Ebbets, of the "Flatbush Squire," and Garrettsville Garry Herrmann, the "Pride of Cincinnati." The National League will act as referee.

The title to the $15,000 stake was won about a year ago. In a money game, Charles Ebbets, who is a native of New York, defeated Garrettsville Garry Herrmann, who is a native of Cincinnati. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Charles Ebbets, who is a native of New York, defeated Garrettsville Garry Herrmann, who is a native of Cincinnati. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The game was played in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Write

For My New Booklet and Price List of

Charming OLD Whiskies

Order a gallon of

BUCK MOUNTAIN, MOUNTAIN VALLEY or OLD RESERVE CORN.

SILVER LEAF, GOLD CUP or GIBSON RYE,

and you will be more than pleased. Satisfaction assured or your money back.

Frank Miller

Mail Orders, 1204 Main St., Richmond, Va.

Massachusetts Plays The Game.

WOODSTOCK, Va., November 21.—Massachusetts, 9; Gettysburg, 0. In the hardest fought game of the year, Massachusetts defeated the Gettysburg team today by a score of 9-0.

Massachusetts made a touchdown, which was not allowed on account of off-side playing. Captain Hart started. Sperry and Crik-berger also played a part.

Referee, Hambrick; umpire, Kountz; time-keeper, Perkins. Time of quarters, 12 minutes.

crowds' the thing.

The experts will tell you in detail of the bewilderment and rout of the Yale men. They will tell how the shadowy Frank Hinkley's flustering laterals and rugby passes were quietly smothered by the crafty Haughton, who had the advantage of having seen Yale fuddle Princeton with those plays a week ago, and who has spent the intervening time studying ways and means of circumvention. They may even relate how good luck trailed the Crimson; as good luck always trails the winner, and dashed the ball from Yale hands on two occasions when it seemed certain Yale would score. On one of these occasions they will have to credit Harvard with the mightiest defense ever seen on a football field, for on that occasion they will have to credit Harvard with the mightiest defense ever seen on a football field, for on that occasion they will have to credit Harvard with the mightiest defense ever seen on a football field.

The crowd—and Yale's new bowl. At least, they call it a bowl. As a matter of fact, it is shaped more like a platter and "bowl" is just a misnomer. Officially, and, perhaps, scientifically, it is known as a "stadia," and the builders went as far as to name it after the University of Syracuse, the Polo Grounds, and the Yale Bowl.

Consider an ant hill that has been shorn of its conical top and hollowed out. There you have a very vague idea of the general appearance of the bowl from the outside, only you are to understand that the bowl is bigger than all the ant hills you ever saw put together.

We have seen pictures of old mounds built by the mound dwellers and the bowl looks something like these pictures. Half way up this Yale mound is sheathed with concrete. There is an embankment of green turf on top of the concrete, to-day there was an additional rampart of raw pine on top of the embankment to make room for the extra seats.

Ingress to the mound is by nearly thirty tunnels. You duck into one of these tunnels, along a brief subway, rising slightly upward, and suddenly emerge in the bowl, but half way toward the top. The interior of the bowl might be likened to a vast roulette wheel, with the mouths of the tunnels answering for pockets.

On every side rise the quaint cliffs of Connecticut, furnishing a great background. The ground all around the bowl was filled with automobiles.

Seventy thousand people—more people than inhabit a lot of pretty towns—60,000 people are a lot of people anywhere you look at them, but the number is particularly impressive when you get them all bunched up together in a few acres of land with the narrow angles between, or plump them down in a body in the streets of a town the size of New Haven.

Even after every seat was taken there were several thousand people clamoring at the entrances of the tunnels, and they waited until the game was over, receiving bulletins as to the progress of the game from friendly spectators.

Yale Officials Promised to Seat 70,000 Spectators, and Well Did They Keep Their Word.

ALL RECORDS SMASHED TO BITS

Largest Paid Attendance Ever Recorded in This Country to Witness a Sporting Event—The Big Saucer-Like Structure Described.

BY DAMON RUNYON.

NEW HAVEN, November 21.—They said they were going to put 70,000 spectators in that new Yale bowl here today, and they did it. They put them there, but no one estimated that Harvard was going to give Yale a licking in the presence of the 70,000 by a score of 26 to 0.

No one suggested that Harvard was going to turn the bowl into a punch bowl, with Yale taking the punching part. That was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.

Yale has the gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football team had lost, she had made a record. All that was apparently reserved as the big speech of the occasion, but it was a speech with a program, that seemed filled with events quite without precedent in the history of American sport.